DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 1 and 3-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vogel in view of Baxley.

Vogel disclose a barrette comprising a leaf spring clamp with an upper (upper arm 14 and decorative plate 10) and lower (lower arm 12) spring, each having a first and second end. The first ends are pivotally joined together, shown in Figure 1. A piece of non-slip material (20) is affixed to the upper (upper arm 14 and decorative plate 10) and lower (12) springs. The leaf spring clamp is capable of clamping hair between the upper (upper arm 14 and decorative plate 10) and lower (lower arm 12) springs. The barrette comprises a clasp coupler (18) disposed on the second end of the upper spring. A clasp catch (19) is located on the second end of the lower spring. The upper spring comprises a support member (decorative plate 10) and a spring member (upper arm 14). The non-slip material (20) is affixed to the spring member (upper arm 14).

Vogel discloses the features discussed above, but does not disclose that the non-slip material is hook fabric material. Baxley teaches the use of hook fabric material as a non-slip material for ornaments to attach to hair and maintain their position in the hair, as discussed in column 2, lines 14-17. It would have been obvious to one having skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the barrette of Vogel with hook fabric material as the non-slip material, as taught by Baxley, since hook fabric material is an art recognized functional equivalent of the non-slip materials exemplified in Vogel at column 4, lines 1-5.

Vogel discloses the features discussed above, but not an ornament attached to the upper spring. Crosley et al. disclose a barrette with an ornament attached to the upper spring, as Figures 1-3. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the barrette of Vogel with an ornament, as taught by Crosley et al, in order to increase the aesthetic appeal of the barrette.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 3-7 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
